Do you play the part of the well-dressed man on the stage of fashion?

Harlan dressers take the most prominent parts on the stage of well-dressed men. The quiet, dignified air that Harlan Clothes impart to wearers marks them at once as men of good taste and correct interpreters of perfect attire.

A man simply can't buy a poor garment bearing the Harlan label-no garment ever left this store that wouldn't pass the most critical inspection.

If it's a business suit, there's a line here without equal, ranging in price from $30 to $50; Tuxedos, $45 to $65; Full Dress, $50 to $75; Overcoats, $30 to $75.

TRAINS COLLIDE AT FAIR GROUNDS.

Wreck on Colorado Railroad.

CREWS ESCAPE BY JUMPING. MANY SUCH CASES UNEARTHED

Obstruction of Track Will Inter- Asserted That a Member of Van fere With Traffic and Delay Important Exposition Construction.

Two heavily loaded freight trains of the Rock Island Railway crashed together in head-end collision on the old Colorado Railroad track just west of the World's Fair grounds at 4:30 o'clock yesterday

Both trains were moving at a fairly rapid rate of speed, and the noise caused by the contact was heard throughout the grounds, and attracted crowds of Exposition employes and laborers, who were on their way home from work, to the scene. The crews of both engines saved themelves by leaping from the cabs when the trains were not more than twenty feet apart. None of the men were injured, but all had narrow escapes.

Ditches line either side of the tracks at the point where the collision occurred. In these the trainmen landed. They had barely time to scramble up the high banks, when debris from derailed and overturned cars fell where they had been standing. The eastbound train, which was being hauled by engine No. 1137, was bringing twenty-four cars loaded with gravel and nacadam for constructing World's Fair oads. The ten or eleven cars immediately roads. The ten or eleven cars immediately behind the engine were demolished and their contents strewn along the tracks. Engine No. 13 hauled the train going west. It was manned by R. H. Williams of No. 5605 Clemens avenue, engineer, and John Foster of No. 807 Manchester avenue, fireman. The conductor of the train was William Green.

MANY CARS WRECKED. The engineers both believed they had the right-of-way and were steaming ahead without thought of danger. There is a slight curve where the trains met, which, with the high banks on the side of the track, prevented either engineer seeing the train approaching from the other di-rection until they were close together. As soon as the trains came in sight of each other the engineers reversed the lev-ers, and, with a shout of warning to their firemen, jumped from their engines. They had hardly struck the ground when the crush came.

One large box car on the westbound train was jolted off its trucks and turned over in the ditch at the north side of the track. Hardly a car on that train escaped without considerable damage.

Cars immediately behind the engine on the eastbound train were smashed into splinters. Several of them were derailed and the couplings and timbers of others were demolished.

On the eastbound train the crew con-and the couplings and timbers of others were demolished.

On the eastbound train the crew consisted of Ben Levesay, engineer; F. E. Meyer, fireman, and Frank Higbee, all of Union, Mo.

The accident is especially harmful, as the track on which it occurred is in continual use for handling Exposition material from the West. The delay incident to clearing away the wreckage will set back important construction work.

Among the crowd which gathered to witness the wreck the coincidence was commented upon—hat the number of one of the engines was 13, and that the accident occurred on Friday, the thirteenth day of the month.

Cott's Family Never Works at Desk Assigned.

The Republic Bureau, Washington, Nov. 13.-It was learned at the Post-Office Department this morning that a number of cases in which Postmasters have paid salaries to "fake" employes have been uncarthed. The accused Postmasters have been ordered to pay back to the department the sum repre sented by the salary drawn by the useless employes.

Warfield has not yet paid the money, and it is thought that he is seeking the advice of counsel. His excuse to the department was that Tippitt was appointed to the office by order of George W. Beavers, who was chief of the Salaries

Mr. Payne holds that Beavers had no right to order a Postmaster to violate the law, and that Mr. Warfield should have made complaint to Postmaster General Smith, with whom Warfield was acquaint-

As far as can be learned, Mr. Warfield made no effort to have the Postmaster General relieve him from the command to violate the law, but accepted the dictation of Beavers as unquestionable. Since Mr. Payne has been in office, he has received no protest from Warfield about Tippitt. The same state of affairs has been discovered in other offices, and the Postmasters have paid up. Mr. Payne said that none of the cases which have received action so far have been in the New York Post Office, where Postmaster Van Cott was accused of having allowed a member of his family to draw a salary for cierical work which was not performed. The Inspectors are now making a thorough examination of the New York office, and it

DRED SCOTT CASE FOR PRECEDENT.

Judge Asked to Uphold Decision That Gave Death Blow to Negro Slavery.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL New York, Nov. 13.-In a legal fight over the custody of Wallace Hicks, minor, a negro jockey, Justice Clarke, in special term. Part I. of the Supreme Court, was called upon by William H. Page, Jr., to uphold the Dred Scott decision and not to permit negro slavery in the State of New York. He said that in the case before the court an attempt had been made to enforce negro slavery in this State.

The alleged attempt to hold young Hicks in so-called slavery came before the court on the return of an order issued recently by Justice McCall at the instance of Ernest V. Reiss, commanding Alphonse of Ernest V. Reiss, commanding Alphonse J. Plicque, a horse trainer and owner of race horses, to show good cause why he should not be compelled to "forthwith deliver Wallace Hicks, a minor," to Reiss. It was in opposing this surrender of Hicks that Mr. Page, counsel for Plicque, asserted that by a certain contract, entered into by the boy's father, Atimore Hicks, a negro of the Parish of La Fourche, La., an attempt was made to put the boy into slavery.

an attempt was made to put the boy into slavery.

Hicks is only 18 years old. He has been riding for some of the best known stables and is looked upon as a most "promising boy." It is charged by Hamilton Wright of New Orleans, who came to New York on behalf of Atimore Hicks, that Wallace Hicks was taken out of the State of Louisiana in violation of the State in tracks about New York. Wallace Inst March was indentured to Chester Wright and Alphonse J. Plicque for three years, they agreeing to pay the father $40 a month for the boy's services. It is asserted that he has never received any such sum, although the boy is said to have earned more than $10,000 the past season.
